

Ref: Web site design and on-line Marketing

To whom it may concern:

When Centreless Machine Tools were looking for a new web site we considered a number of suppliers, the decision to choose tri-IT was made because we felt they took the time to understand our business, and the goods and services we offer.

tri-it presented a proposal which would provide us with a professional well designed site, capable of being optimised to bring in new business.

tri-it understood how businesses operate, and the importance of ensuring that our company's web site brings in a real R.O.I for us.

We found that the service provided by tri-IT was excellent, delivering our new site in time and within budget. The new site has already started to bring ion new enquires and orders, confirming our excellent choice in supplier.

We found that the company went beyond what we would have expected, and would have no hesitation in recommending tri-IT for other company's looking for web design and on-line marketing services.
